A father came home from a long business trip to find his son riding a fancy new 10 speed bike.
"Where did you get the money for that bike?"

It must have cost $300."

"Easy, Dad," the boy replied.

"I earned the money hiking."

"Come on," the father said, "tell me the truth."

"That is the truth," the boy replied.

"Every night while you were gone,

Mr. Reynolds from the grocery store would come over to see Mom. He'd give me a $20 bill, and tell me to take a hike."

An old lady, who lived on the third floor of a boardinghouse, broke her leg. As the doctor put a cast on it, he warned her not to climb any stairs. Several weeks later, the doctor removed the cast. "Can I climb stairs now?" asked the little old lady.

"Yes," he replied.

"Thank goodness!" she said. "I'm sick and tired of shinnying up and down that drainpipe!"

A man was confiding his concerns about his daughter's engagement. He liked the young man, but feared that the couple was not planning realistically for the future.

Trying to be helpful, the friend suggested, "A rock band?"

A young woman decides to try horseback riding, even though she hasn't had any lessons, and has no prior experience. She mounts the horse unassisted and the horse immediately springs into motion. It gallops along at a steady rhythmic pace, but the woman begins to slip from the saddle. In terror, she grabs for the horse's mane, but cannot seem to get a firm grip.

She throws her arms around the horse's neck but slides down the side of the horse anyway.

The horse gallops along, seemingly oblivious to its slipping rider. Finally, giving up her frail grip, she leaps from the horse.

Unfortunately, her foot becomes entangled in the stirrup and she is now at the mercy of the horse's pounding hooves as her head is struck against the ground again and again.

She is moments away from unconsciousness when the Walmart manager runs out to shut the horse off.

A couple had been married for 45 years and had raised a brood of 11 children and were blessed with 22 grandchildren.

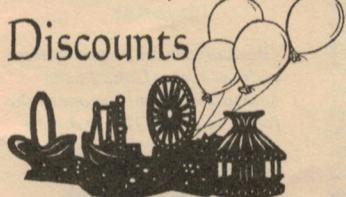

When asked the secret for staying together all that time, the wife replied, "Many years ago, we made a promise to each other: the first one to pack up and leave had to take all the kids."

Gladys was the preacher's wife and accompanied her husband to church each Sunday. One particular Sunday, when the sermon seemed to go on forever, many in the congregation fell asleep. After the service, to be sociable, she walked up to a sleepy looking gentleman, extended her hand in greeting, and introduced herself.

"Hello, I'm Gladys Dunn."

To which the gentleman replied,
"You're not the only one!"

While strolling down the street one day, a young man passed a large building with a fence around it. He heard a group of people chanting, "Thirteen, thirteen, thirteen..." over and over. Curious, he tried to see over the fence, but couldn't. Then he spotted a knot in the wood, and put his eye to the hole.

He just managed to spy some old people sitting in deckchairs chanting, before a finger came out of nowhere and poked him in the eye.

As he staggered back, the old people started chanting, "Fourteen, fourteen, fourteen..."

Prosecutor: "Did you kill that man?"

STRANGE But True...

(August 1999) A 33-year old man died after winning a drinking competition held at a hotel bar in Sydney, Australia. The competition, known as Feral Friday, has a 100-minute time limit and a sliding point scale ranging from 1 point for beer to 8 points for hard liquor. The winner stood and cheered his winning total of 236 points, which also netted him a blood alcohol level of 0.353.

The young man was helped back to his work place to sleep it off, a condition that became permanent. A forensic pharmacologist estimated that after the young man downed 34 beers, 4 bourbons, and 17 shots of tequila within 1 hour and 40 minutes, his blood alcohol level would have been 0.41 to 0.43, but the young man had vomited several times after the drinking stopped.

The hotel was fined the equivalent of $13,100 US dollars for not intervening. It is not known whether the young man required any further embalming.

"Look," Mrs. Mouse said to her husband, "I can't stand this anymore. I'm leaving you! I am tired of living in a hole in the wall!"

"When do I hit my peak allowance years?"

"Sure, the Invisible Man and Woman's children are helpful, friendly, and polite, but they sure aren't much to look at."

IF IT'S TRUE
